<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Support the whole child within the whole family: We understand that young children’s social, emotional, physical, and cognitive development are interdependent, and that children grow and learn within their family relationships and the larger community. 2. Build connections between the many systems that serve young children and their parents and caregivers: We recognize the importance of smooth transitions for children and families as they grow from infancy through toddlerhood and preschool, and enter elementary school. 3. Embrace the importance of fathers and male role models in the healthy development of children: We expect intentional inclusion of fathers/male role models and consideration of their needs within the structure and delivery models of family services and supports. 4. Promote positive development in infants and toddlers, and focus on prevention and early intervention: We know that 75% of a child’s brain develops before the third birthday, and that it is therefore critical to support pregnant women and to help mothers, fathers, and caregivers establish and maintain stable and loving 	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Support the whole child within the whole family. We understand that young children’s social, emotional, physical, and cognitive development are interdependent, and that children grow and learn within their family relationships and the larger community. 2. Re-envision systems that serve young children and their families to ensure equitable access and a seamless experience. We recognize the importance of smooth transitions for children and families as they grow from infancy through toddlerhood and the preschool years, and enter elementary school. 3. Embrace the importance of all caregivers in the healthy development of children. We expect intentional inclusion of all familial structures and the primary caregivers in a child’s life, with consideration of their needs within the structure and delivery models of family services and supports. 4. Include children of diverse abilities. We support the right of all children to live, grow, and learn in their communities. 5. Uplift cultural, ethnic, and linguistic diversity. We believe all relationships with their infants and toddlers.

5. Include children of diverse abilities: We support the right of all children to live, grow, and learn in their communities.
6. Respect and engage parents and families: We acknowledge the strength of individual familial structures and cultures, and respect the desire and ability of parents to nurture their children and act as their first teachers.
7. Honor cultural, ethnic, and linguistic diversity: We believe that all services should be delivered in a culturally and linguistically appropriate way.
8. Appreciate strengths: We build upon the positive qualities of children, families, and communities in the design and delivery of programs.
9. Enlarge community capacity: We invest in our community's understanding of and ability to support the healthy development of all children services should be designed, planned, and delivered to meet the needs of our county residents, in a culturally and linguistically responsive way.

6. Believe in the strengths and resiliency of all families and cultures. We respect the desire and ability of families to nurture their children and act as their first teachers. We build upon the positive qualities of children, families, and communities in the design and delivery of programs.
7. Expand our collective understanding of the critical importance of supporting and meeting the need for healthy development of all children.
